INTRODUCTION:

The exact method shared below was used by a person to generate his very first sale online and he still uses this method to generate some cash whenever he needs it. His name is Kenny.

Before you start reading this, there's something you need to know. You have probably heard this lot before but it is so important so I am going to tell you anyway.

This method will do absolutely nothing for you unless you put it into action and actually do something with it. So please do. This is simple and worked for him and I know it will work for you. You have to be willing to put in the work or you will never succeed online.

Alright now that I'm done with the pep talk so let's get started!

Your friend,

Step 1

If you aren't already, you need to go and get signed up for ClickBank. I'm sure a lot of you already are but if not just go to clickbank.com. It is free and will only take a few minutes.

Next you need to choose a product to promote in the ClickBank marketplace. Kenny only uses two criteria when choosing his product to promote.

The first was to pick something that he was interested or knew a lot about, or both.

The second was the amount of gravity. If you haven't heard of ClickBank's gravity stat it roughly means that is the amount of people that are making at least one sale a month with that product.

The product he chooses, Guy Gets Girl, had a gravity of about 50. That is generally a good number, it means that the product is selling but there isn't a ridiculous amount of competition. Now all you need to do is click on the promote link and put in your ClickBank ID.

Make sure this is correct. The thought of losing potential sales because you typed in the wrong ID is terrifying.

So go ahead and pick a niche. Along with this one, he chooses the weight loss niche; that one is a lot harder to break into but he has a few articles at number one in Google.

For your first time, I would suggest you go for a slightly less competitive niche.

Step 2

The next step in the process is to go buy an .info domain name from GoDaddy.com. This only costs a few dollars.

*Note: I use Namecheap for buying domain, but in this report, it's using Godaddy because that's what Kenny uses.

The reason you are going to be getting this domain name is because we are going to be writing articles for EzineArticles.com, and they don't allow affiliate links in their articles.

I'll talk about all of that stuff in a later section.

If you don't even want to spend the dollar scroll down a little bit and I'll talk about the free method. It takes a bit more work and might be slightly less effective but if you really can't spend money it is the way to go.

What you are going to be doing with the GoDaddy domain name is redirecting it to the affiliate link, don't worry this is much easier than it sounds and I'll walk you through it. Plus GoDaddy's support is great so they can help you if you really need it.

The first step is to create a GoDaddy account and register the domain name itself. You want to choose a domain name that is short, catchy, and clickable. You aren't going to be worrying about it ranking in search engines and stuff like that, its sole purpose is to redirect to the affiliate link.

For Kenny's niche, which was the dating/attraction niche, he chooses TheSeducer.info. It is short, catchy, and clickable, just like he said.

After you buy the domain name you have to wait for it to be activated. Theoretically this could take 24 hours but it has never taken more than 20 minutes for him.

Log in to your account and go to your domain manager. Click on your domain and then click forwarding.

Under forward main domain paste in the affiliate link you got from ClickBank.

It can take a little while for this to get all set up. Just keep typing in the domain name you registered in your address bar until the affiliate page shows up.

Then scroll down till you see the order button. Click it and scroll down to the very bottom of the page, make sure it says:

[affiliate=your affiliate id] (obviously your affiliate ID should be the one you signed up with)

If that looks good you are all set to go.

That wasn't so bad was it?

Step 2 (Free Method)

If you don't want to spend the few dollars on a domain name there is something else you can do.

Go to over to Squidoo.com and create a lens. Make the title something general about your niche and make the page relatively useful.

You are going to do everything else in the guide exactly the same except instead of linking to your domain you will be linking to this page.

Squidoo lenses are cool little pages where you can put in text, images, links and other things.

They are pretty easy to get used to and it shouldn't take you too long to get used to how to do it.

For an example of a good Squidoo page check out Bad Boys Attract Hot Women, that is one that Kenny used.

You are going to put your affiliate link in the Squidoo lens instead of the Ezine Article. Check out the page above for examples of good ways to do this.

I highly recommend at least getting your link cloaked by going to tinyurl.com or bit.ly. That way your link doesn't look too much like an affiliate link. Those are free tools and bit.ly lets you track your link so you can see how many times it is getting clicked on.

You can also use this method but set up a Hubpage instead of Squidoo. Kenny actually have recently started to like Hubpages more than Squidoo.

But having your own domain name to redirect to is going to increase the number of clicks you get by a lot, so I suggest using that method.

Step 3

Okay now that you have your product chosen and your domain redirect set up, it is time for the work to start. I know you were dreading this part but I've got some news for you. The only people that become rich without work are lottery winners and heirs to fortunes.

Chances are you aren't either of those so you are going to have to work. Our first step is going to be keyword research.

The keyword tool I used is free and is the best I have ever seen. I hardly ever use Google's keyword tool anymore because I like this one so much better.

You can get it here. All it requires is an opt-in, so just do it because it's a fantastic tool. Alright once you have the tool opened up you are going to type in a general phrase for your niche. For example, in my niche, I would type in something like “attract women” and see what I got. There is only one column you need to pay attention to, so don’t worry about the rest.

+export to CSV

WordTracker	WordTracker count	Google daily est	Yahoo! daily est	MSN daily est	Overall daily est
women attract pisces men	584	730	210	91	1,030

san andreas attract women cheat	57	71	20	9	101
attract a libra	54	68	19	8	95

Look at the numbers under the column “Google Daily Est.” This is the number of daily searches that phrase gets on Google. We aren’t going to spend too much time on that; Kenny usually tries to go for phrases that have at least 20 searches a day.

Now we are going to click on that number in the “Google Daily Est.” column. That will bring up the Google results for that term.

There are two things we want to look at. The first is the number in the top right. If that number is less than 500,000 pages, keep going with the next step. If it is more, move on to a different keyword.

← That's my article at #1!!

This isn't a hard and fast rule, but it is a general guideline. Next you are going to look at the first and second pages of the results.

Are there any ezine articles on there already? If there are look at the title and the excerpt. How well is the article optimized for that keyword? If it is an exact match or pretty close, you should move on to another keyword.

But if it only looks to be closely related, you can probably beat it out by properly optimizing your article using the technique I am going to show you in the guide.

So if there are around 500,000 pages or less and there are no ezine articles or there are poorly optimized ezine articles on the first few pages, that is a good keyword to use. Let's move on.

By the way, Kenny had ranked for keyword terms that had over a million competing pages but it is a bit harder and a little more about luck and what Google decides to do. He likes to stick to the 500,000 just because it has worked so well for him.

Step 4

Now we get into the real dirty work of actually writing the articles. This is the most time consuming step but if you chose a product you were interested in it shouldn't be too difficult.

And once you start making money you can outsource this and put it on almost complete autopilot.

There is a specific formula he uses for every single one of his articles that works great for him.

Here it is:

You are only going to put your main keyword phrase into your article three times, once in the title, once in the first sentence, and once in the last paragraph.

For the title use your main keyword then something catchy. He likes to use a hyphen to separate these sometimes. For example one of his keywords for an article he recently wrote was "values of physical fitness." His article title was "3 Values of Physical Fitness That May Save Your Life." That is a pretty clickable title. Most people care about their life.

Another example is for the keyword "bad boys attract hot women." Kenny's title was "Bad Boys Attract Hot Women - You Can Steal Their Secrets." That's an example of how to use the hyphen thing.

I don't know why but for some reason the hyphen works great in getting your articles ranked.

As for the body of the article, the only things you need to worry about are getting the keyword in the first sentence or paragraph, in the last paragraph, it being at least 250 words, and it being at least mildly useful.

For the rest just write naturally and try to write like you are talking to someone.

You also need to make sure your article delivers on the title. If you are offering 3 Tricks to Attract Hot Women, you better have 3 tricks to attract hot women.

Your article doesn't have to be super useful and may actually be better if it isn't because people will want more info and then click on your affiliate link.

Using Dumbbell Swings to Get in Shape - Do They Work?

It can be very effective to use dumbbell swings to get in shape, but you can't just do that one exercise. You need to incorporate it into your current exercise routine, or if you don't have one, make one and include the dumbbell swings in them.

An example of a good exercise you can do is stand with your feet a little more than shoulder width apart, and keeping your back straight, swing the dumbbell between your legs and all the way up above your head.

This is probably the most common way to do dumbbell swings, and the most effective. So what else should you be doing with the dumbbell swings? You should be running, eating healthy, and doing other weighted exercises.

I'm not a fan of using machines because the movement isn't natural. While it will help you build muscle the muscle won't be that useful, so you will look strong but there will probably a lot of guys that won't be as big as you but can do a hell of a lot more than you.

I like to use free weights and do exercises that mimic real life movements, like these swings for example. So I would highly recommend you start using these in your workout starting immediately.

Start out with a light weight then move up as you feel like you are able to. This should get you in pretty good shape pretty fast. Take these tips and go use dumbbell swings to get in shape right now!

Tags

The only tag he puts in is his main keyword. The rest can just be the recommended ones they give you or your own.

Just make sure you have your main keyword in the tags box.

The Resource Box

The next part is the resource box/author bio box. This is where you will be putting your link. Do not put any links in the actual article, EZA doesn't like that.

There are three ways Kenny writes resource boxes, they all work well.

First of all you are not going to treat it like a resource box or an author bio box. Using either of those methods will get you a crappy click thru rate.

The first method he likes to use is looking at AdWords ads. Type your keyword or any related one into Google and look at the ads. Pull out some copy from those and stick it in your resource box.

Here is an example:

How to Get Six Pack Abs

Best exercises to trim your waist and get six pack abs fast.

FitnessMonster.info

The other method is really quick and works great. All you are going to do is write a quick little headline and a line or two offering them free info. Keep in mind this will only work if the product you are promoting has a free offer on the page.

Here is another example:

Get the Best Kept Secrets

Visit FitnessMonster.info to get some FREE info on getting in the best shape of your life.

FitnessMonster.info

The third one is making it look like your resource box is just another part of your article. Just flow into it like it is another part of your article, and throw a link or two in there.

Another example:

1. Mountain Climbers - These are good not only for your abs, but your whole body. They are also great for improving your cardio. Mountain climbers are one of my favorite exercises of all time.

2. Sit-Ups - I know that a lot of people say sit-ups are out but they still work great for me. Just make sure that you incorporate other exercises in with the sit-ups.

3. Swiss Balls - You know those giant blue rubber balls? Those are Swiss balls. These are fantastic little devices that can get you in great shape. There are all kinds of ab exercises you can do with these. My favorite is the plank. Put your feet up on the ball and your elbows down on the ground and hold your body perfectly straight for at least 30 seconds.

Once you do this more often you will be able to hold it for longer and longer.

4. Hanging sit-ups - To do these hang on a pull up bar or something. Then, keeping your legs straight, lift them up to at least waist height, higher if you can, and slowly lower them back down. Make sure to keep your form and don't rush through it.

5. Burpees - Last, but not least, my favorite exercise of all time. Using burpees to get in shape can work wonders for you. These work almost every single muscle in your body. It is kind of a complicated exercise so you might want to look up how to do them if you don't already know.

6. More info - These exercises work great, but there are so many more you could be doing. To get some free tricks on getting a great six pack visit FitnessMonster.info. By far the best info I have found on getting an awesome six pack.

Play around with these and see which ones you like best or which work for you.

Another little trick

A cool technique he has recently come across is to not actually end the article. Basically you don't have a conclusion in your article.

Then in the resource box you say something like, "Next, learn the little known pick-up secrets to getting the women of your dreams." And then put your affiliate link somewhere in there.

This is a great little trick and he has only just started using it, but it will get your clickthru rate up pretty good on your links.

Article Promotion

Now you have your link set up, a good keyword, and an article written. What next? Well not much. As soon as your first article gets published you are going to go to feedest.com, feedage.com, and feedping.com and submit your author RSS feed.

To do this just go to your author page and click on the little orange RSS icon in your address bar. Copy that url and paste it into the forms on those sites.

Now what you need to do is rinse and repeat. Make it a goal for yourself to write a certain amount of articles a day, and stick to it, no matter what.

I don't like to do too much promotion because Google already loves EZA and you can get good listings without doing much.

You can always do a little social bookmarking but Kenny never really seen good results from doing this.

Your Action Plan

Here is your step by step action plan:

1. Find a good product
2. Get a good .info domain and redirect it to your affiliate link or put up a Squidoo page
3. Find a good keyword with the SEO Book Tool
4. Write articles around the keywords you found
5. Submit your author RSS feed
6. Repeat over and over and over and over

After a while you are going to get bored writing about the same things over and over again. I know that feeling all too well. You have to power through it and know that once you start making some good money you can begin outsourcing those tasks to other people for a small fee.

Just keep that motivation and picture what your life is going to be like after you have the money and business you have worked so hard for.

It took Kenny over two years to make his first sale! Keep going and don't give up, you can do it! Using this info will help you get there a lot faster than he did.

All the best,

Patric Chan
